

Mankind and the big crunch

Unfortunately, because mankind has based (his/her) modern societies upon the Ego-Centric paradigm, the inevitable collapse on a world wide boom/bust cycle is imminent. I could go on for months with all the details, but suffice it to say that thousands of facts and details all point to a massive bust cycle that will leave the economy in shambles, paper money worthless, and millions dead. Not a pretty sight. I always thought that perceiving on the Mag4 was a great thing and thanked the universe that I could compress out the details so I could see megalithic pictures. Now it just makes me sad because I can watch the train wreck in slow motion and do nothing to stop it.

I could blame the greedy merchant princes who wanted all the power and wealth. I could blame the corrupt politicians who wanted power over people and their own personal wealth. I could blame the real owners of the Federal Reserve, IMF, and World Bank, but they were just greedy (individuals and then corporations) and felt that if everyone was greedy, that it was best for a society. You could blame the masses who listened to propaganda as truth, not knowing the difference, each striving for their own small piece of the pie just to survive. But blame doesn't fix the problem nor the inevitable outcome of everyone's actions. Nothing fixes it anymore. We have gone too far down the rabbit hole. Sorry, but knowledge of how it all fits together, happened, will happen, is so painful when you are powerless to change or prevent the outcomes.

Enough of the doom and gloom. I love you all and cry for what is soon to happen. What will be will be, in spite of all of us alive today. All I can say to you, is that within 5 years after the big crunch, we must band together and live Orga-Centrically. Only then will our species thrive, grow, and survive. We must evolve or die. Orga-Centricity is our last hope and can only take root after the big collapse. Once money becomes useless, then everyone who survives the fallout from that event is in the same boat. Please read about Orga-Centricity and spread the word. Our future depends on it.
