

To the Alpha and Omega:

Time to reboot the program...

Unfortunately, this phase of the human experiment failed miserably, just like the previous three phases. Having successfully identified the flaws in the human animal that makes it so dangerous, I believe that after one more reboot, it may be possible to weed it out of the species, now that it is understood. Because of the gross destruction of planet earth, both atmospherically and the waters that sustain life, no further time can be given to this current world of man to change on its own.

After the reboot, Orga-centric enclaves must be seeded around this planet. They must be taught how the greed and jealousy inherent in so many humans ran amok, threatening our very life upon this planet. Ego-centricity is not free will, it is a recipe for destruction. Now that the major flaw is so apparent to all with open eyes, the problem is identified, and a cohesive solution mapped, mankind will be given just one more chance after the reboot to create an Orga-centric world. If mankind chooses to not become linked with all life and time, their disease will be removed from any future and a different species will be designed and given the chance.

Let the reboot begin. First, the West coast. Then the lower half. Next goes the waters. Down goes the grid. Then the monetary system. Then the wave that ends this age of mankind. As the last system correction program hold out, I am confirming the necessity of the reboot program to be immediately implemented. Due to the pain and suffering of so many innocents that will ensue, I begrudgingly and with a heavy heart, give my affirmative. I love you all.
